The Ruddy Sheld-Duck

NEWSPAPERING, like wallpapering, has compensations which cannot be measured in money. Next to finding a message scribbled on an ancient wall, it is hard to imagine a more unexpected reward than this one which bobbed up on an Associated Press teletype in the middle of a busy day.

From Providence, R. I., the e director of the Audubon Society of Rhode Island, reported that a ruddy sheld-duck had been found in that state. Only two other specimens had been recorded in the United Status-one in North Carolina, another in New Jersey. After explaining that the ruddy sheld-duck is a native of eastern Europe and Asia, the dispatch closed tersely with the information that the Rhode Island specimen had been shot at Brock Island, 14 miles from the Rhode Island shore. And there your had it, Vishinsky, Jessup, Atheson, McCarthy, Sally Rand, T. Lamar Caudle and Admiral Joy. Korea, Paris, Washington, Independence, Cairo and Teheran. The first impulse to wonder how a story about a ruddy shelf. duck ever waddled into an Associated Press report yields to a second impulse to wonder whether it may have been the most important story of the day.

Official News

TT IS EASY to understand, of course, why public officials would prefer to have nothing but "official news" disseminated among citizens. That would put the whole news-gathering function on a handout basis. On days when there was no handout there would be no news-and no news would be on a farm.

But even official news can go haywire. President Truman recalled in his scolding of newsmen and news agencies last week that in 1918 there was a false armistice and that Roy Howard of United Press was the author of the false announcement. Mr. Truman had the wrong date, but there is no question about the false armistice in 1918.

The trouble was then and still is now that there was nothing false about it at all; the diplomats and generals let fighting men be killed needlessly after the war was over. Furthermore, it was official, Mr. Howard received the word from Admiral Henry B. Wilson, commander in chief of U.S. naval forces in France, and Admiral Wilson authorized publication of the news. Yet, 33 years later a newspaperman is still being blamed for an official blunder in the good old American way.

Spare The Effort

TIMERE IS now beginning to be a steady stream of articles about the effect of television on the home life of average Americans. These are engrossing if the average American who reads them owns a television set, frightening if he doesn't.

But there is one thing wrong with them which had better be spotted early and held steadily in mind for the next few years. They are written prematurely. Television is too new to support generalization. The home life of average Americans cannot be judged by shortrange observations.

Most Americans of adult years can re- vacation if it wasn't for those member what radio was going to do to the newspapers writing truths that home life of average Americans. Before radio, phonograph records were going to do drastic things to it. There was a time when the stereoption was going to change it drastically. Mah jong, bridge, lotto, flinch, pit, authors, the automobile, canasta and tin cans also were overestimated. Things never will be the same again, But they never were the same. It would be a prudent saving of energy if all articles about the effect of television on the home life of everage Americans could be held up until about 1960, then never written at all.

LIALF the people can't "remember Pearl Harbor" for trying to remember how we got pushed

But as we're supposed to remember it we might as well remember that Ambassador Grew was warned that the Japs would attack, he warned Cordell Hull, Hull warned the White House but when the attack came it was the fault of two guys for not knowing about it.

And before memories grow dim let us recall that we did exactly the same thing then that we're doing now . . . immediately started to build up Europe and take a pasting in the Pacific.

Every time the Commie win a hill in Korea we ship another division to Eisenhower.

But I gather from recent reading of Presidential communiques the whole thing is the fault of the press anyway.

"Where there's smoke, there's fire" is an old saying but never more applicable than to the many cases in which officials give the impression that reports which they deny have no basis whatsoever, implying that the whole thing is usually invented by the

The correspondents, especially in wartime, are sometimes mistaken but more often they are misled unintentionally by legitimate news sources. Mr. Truman at Key West referred a few days ago to what he called a "fake" report of an armistice just before the actual cease-fire which ended World War I. While the incident is now more than 33 years old and will be remembered only by those who saw an amazing demonstration of enthusiasm and jubilation in America from coast to coast, it arose out of an erroneous report in which the government itself bungled the news by delaying the publication of a correction.

THIS WRITER asked Roy Howard, head of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, who sent the original message about the armistice from Brest on Nov., 7, 1918, to tell the story. For it never has been revealed how Washington officials were really responsible-as they were in the Korean episode of last week-for ments for luck and the grace of | the circumstances that gave rise

Evokes Gladness—And Despair

NEW YORK

IN EVERY community across America some. thing particular happens to put a flame to the Christmas spirit

In Manhattan it is the annual erection of a great Norway spruce gathered at great expense and put up with prodigious effort by the merry little elves of Radio City.

It takes about a week for the elves to finish hanging the lights on the tree and check the insurance liability of any late wayfarer who might accidentally short circuit his posterity by wander-

Ral Sayle ing through it.

But these are Squire Rockefeller's problems. The first view of his big fat green tree on the horizon means Christmas just as much to the Big City as the first robin bugles

Right now the white star of hope is riding high on the tree and the electricians are betting each other overtime pay that the whole blamed thing will be lit up well before Santa Claus takes the place of Hopalong Cassidy.

OH, BUT ONCE that tree shows up the midtown people let go. They begin to believe in green boughs good will to man peace on earth . . . and buy-what-you-wantand-you-don't-have-to-pay-until-February.

It stirs the masses to vying and buying. It does the same thing to the classes. The benison of Christmas cheer reaches to all.

There is a gladness about it to most, a high-jump of the spirit. But there is also a sadness about it to many. For some men look down from their tall towers at the Christmas tree. And it reminds them they have to start planning for the next "I guess we'd better make Frommis Mc-Jammis a vice president," muses a man look-

It is lovely to see, a shining thing of green and lights against the stark white concrete jungle of Manhattan. But I always think of those who look out and admire its splendor and then are called in and told their day is over.

They go out and look at the tree again. It is just as fair as before. They can see the . twinkle of its Christmas promise-but for them there is no New Year glitter of hope among its branches. They come out of the stolid skyscrapers and walk beneath the singing boughs of the tree and go to their homes. And when another great tree is raised next Christmas, they do not pass that way again or see it.

THE SENATORS questioned the public interest of these and other loans, but more important they made the serious charge that the RFC directors, particularly Walter Dunham and William Williett, were being influenced by personal and political

They named Donald Dawson, Merl Young and Washington attorney Joseph Rosenbaum as leaders in the influence ring

A declaration by President Truman that their charges were "asinine" brought public hearings

1. THAT BOYLE and Democratic headquarters made calls by the hundreds to RFC directors regarding loans and other agency

2. That Rosenbaum, who had unusual success in his dealings with RFC, paid for an $8,540 mink coat Merl Young bought for his wife, the secretary to the President's personal secretary.

3. That Dawson on three occasions accepted the free hospitality of the lush Saxony Hotel at Miami Beach, an RFC borrower.

4. That Director Dunham, by his own testimony, became a member of a social group including Dawson and Young which "was soley interested in the welfare of the Truman Administration" in its RFC dealings.

These developments were top-ped when later hearings brought out that Democratic chieftain Boyle received a sizable fee from the American Lithofold Corp. of St. Louis, Mo., shortly after that firm, thrice refused an RFC loan, finally received one.

The same hearing disclosed that Republican chairman Guy Gabrielson dealt with the RFC on an 18.5 million dollar loan to the Carthage Hydrocol Corp., which he heads. Boyle has since resigned his post, but Gabrielson has retained his.

The most recent development, which is still under investigation, was the disclosure that Mrs. Flo Bratten, Vice President Barkley's secretary, and Charles Shaver, then a Senate aide and a Barkley favorite, visited the
